Law Instructor Health Law Practice Clinic

Job ID: 26921
Location: CUNY School of Law
Full/Part Time: Full-Time
Regular/Temporary: Regular

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT
The CUNY School of Law Clinical Program has been nationally recognized as one of the best in legal education and affords each student intern the opportunity to engage in the practice of law by learning through service to underserved communities. The Law School currently offers eleven live-client clinical programs and three practice clinics. CUNY School of Law faculty members have been recognized as innovative leaders in clinical legal education, through service, publications, and participation at conferences.

Reporting to the Clinical Dean, the Instructor will teach, research, and provide guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Responsibilities may include supervising students in legal practice or related activities. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

The instructor is responsible for case supervision, case management, co-teaching and curricular development in the Health Law Practice Clinic, “Health Law,” which is one-semester, 12-credit clinic offered in the Fall Semester; and involves summer work creating student supervision and placement opportunities. The instructor will also participate in clinic faculty meetings during the school year, and perform other duties for the benefit of the overall program.

The instructor has the ultimate responsibility for the overall operation of the program, including teaching or co-teaching the classroom component, the administration of the clinic, and supervision of students’ casework including supervising Health Law cases within Main Street Legal Services and any other Health Law projects. In the student's absence, the Law School Instructor will assume responsibility for student work.

The instructor may also teach an elective course in the law school curriculum, depending on curricular need and the expertise of the instructor, determined in conjunction with the Clinic Dean and Academic Affairs Dean.

The instructor will also teach the Pipeline to Justice Part 2 course in the spring which focuses on professional writing, analytical reasoning and verbal communication skills and meets two evenings each week from 6:30 to 9:30 PM.
In the first two years of service, Law School Instructors may opt into participating in faculty meetings, pursuant to the CUNY School of Law Governance Plan. They may also assume other faculty governance responsibilities and serve on committees. Upon reappointment for three or more years of continuous service, they may participate in governance activities without an annual opt-in process.

QUALIFICATIONS

J.D., L.L.B., or Ph.D. in a law-related discipline. Also required are demonstrated legal ability; ability to teach successfully; interest in productive scholarship or law-related work; and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

COMPENSATION

$90,000, - $105,567

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.
